ORE HOUSE AT MILAGRO FACTS

The Ore House tradition continues its 35 years of history at their new Milagro location under the skylight roof and on the outdoor entry patio. The Ore House at Milagro is Santa Fe's live music, chile and margarita headquarters. The restaurant serves great New Mexico cuisine in an exquisite setting with chile prepared in many traditional and new ways.

Chef Carlos Hernandez specialties include the savory, signature Red Chile Relleno and Milagro's wonderful Chiles en Nogada. Top aged choice to prime domestic and grass-fed Argentine beef and seasonal fresh, wild caught seafood are prepared Southwest style with the flavorful additions of New Mexico's and Old Mexico's famous red and green chiles including ancho, pasilla, poblano, guajillo, chipotle and for a bit more "spice," jalapeno and habanero.

Salsas are made fresh daily on premises, most notably Ore House "Charred Tomato Salsa" which is also available for sale in jars. The Ore House at Milagro features more than 60 tequilas, all 100 percent Blue Weber Agave Silver, Reposado, and Añejo Tequilas all from the state of Jalisco, Mexico, the source. Ore House at Milagros two bars "El Toro" and "Cielo" offer a broad selection of the best beers, with Stella, and Modelo Especial and Negro Modelo on tap, cold and delicious paired with the Ore House's entrees. More than 10,000 margaritas are served up, on the rocks or blended with amazing flavors, liqueurs and fruit garnishes.

A beautiful banquet room is available upstairs for parties and can accommodate up to 45 people. Add the mezzanine and 100-plus can be comfortably hosted in a stunning, private setting. Guests will be surrounded by gorgeous photos of the American West by documentary photographer Edward Curtis (1868–1952) at the main bar and in the banquet room.

WHAT: Ore House at Milagro, 139 W. San Francisco, Santa Fe, NM. Where Galisteo Street Meets San Francisco, just a short block away from the Lensic.
